Description

Historical Note: In 1936, The Pilgrim Fellowship was developed and established at a national youth conference in Lakeside, OH. The formation was a response from increasing interest of Congregational youths to address the needs and problems in local "young people's organizations." Headquartered in Boston, Massachusetts and under the advice and guidance of the Congregational Education Society, officers of the national organization were elected and governed by senior high school youth members from Congregational churches throughout the United States. Its mission; to help youth work towards a united church and to promote, participate and secure equal rights and opportunities for all classes and races through social and missionary action, both domestically and internationally. In addition to its two main governing bodies, the executive and central committees, the national council committee was charged in creating and facilitating the biennial National Council. At these conferences, youth delegates from across the country would discuss new and current programs that promote their mission, and to hold elections for committees. Today, the Pilgrim Fellowship continues as the National Association of Pilgrim Fellowship.

Scope of Collection: Materials include minutes and correspondences from National, Central, and National Council committees; Minutes and proceedings from National Councils and International conferences; group photos from National Councils; newsletters published by the Pilgrim Fellowship, National Council, and Young People's Bulletin; program guides for summer conferences and youth camps. The collection includes a variety of program materials published by the Pilgrim Fellowship and the Congregational Education Society. Much of the collection contains material from the National Pilgrim Fellowship with a few items from state level Pilgrim Fellowships, including photos and newspaper clippings.
